TRUSTEES' REPORT.

The Fitty-fifth Annual Report of the Trustees of the Peabody Institute, for the year ending January 31, 1907, is respectfully submitted.

The reports of the Lyceum and Library Committee, and the various sub-committees, with that of the Treasurer, are here given in detail.

The Treasurer's Report will be found unusually interesting this year for a modern system of bookkeeping has been put in practice, which will no doubt simplify the several accounts.

We find the Institute property in very good condition; only a small sum of money has been spent in repairs and improvements, the Building Committee finding little to be done. In the early future the question of changing over the present heating plant will be given attention and also other improvements as recommended by the Committee in their yearly reports.

WILLIAM ARMSTRONG, President,

For the Trustees.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

TO THE TRUSTEES OF PEABODY INSTITUTE, PEABODY, MASS.:

Gentlemen:—

In submitting my annual report as Treasurer, I wish to call your attention to the following changes which have been made during the year:—

A modern system of book-keeping has been inaugurated from a plan originated by Mr. Lyman P. Osborn. The securities at the beginning of the year were all carried to our new books at par, with the exception of 50 shares of West End Street Railway preferred, par $50, which have been entered at cost, $83. Premium and profit and loss accounts have been opened which enable us to keep an exact record of our income.

Additional insurance to the amount of $25,000 has been placed on the Institute building, and the insurance on the Wallis house has been increased $1,000.

During the year $3,000 City of Providence bonds and $3,000 Eastern Railroad bonds became due and the funds were reinvested, under the direction of the Finance Committee, together with $2,000 from our cash balance in the Warren National bank belonging to the Reserve Fund, as follows:

\$5,000 Pennsylvania Steel Car Trust bonds, bearing $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent interest, for the Reserve Fund; \$2,000 28th and 29th Streets Crosstown Railway bonds, bearing 5 per cent. interest, and \$1,000 Illinois Steel Debenture bond, bearing 5 per cent. interest for the General Fund.

The Springfield and Western Railway Company has been reorganized and we have exchanged our $5,000 bonds bearing 5 per cent. in that company for an equal amount of Indiana, Columbus & Eastern Traction Co.'s 5 per cent. bonds, which we believe to be a better bond.

All interest and rents have been paid when due.

JOSEPH J. THORNDIKE, Treasurer.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

LYCEUM AND LIBRARY COMMITTEE.

TO THE TRUSTEES OF THE PEABODY INSTITUTE.

Gentlemen:—I transmit herewith the reports of the Librarians and sub-committees of the Lyceum and Library Committee. They present in full the work of the Institute for the year ending Jan. 31, 1907.

Respectfully submitted,

J. W. HUDSON,

Chairman Lyceum and Library Committee.

PEABODY, Jan. 31, 1907.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARY COMMITTEE FOR THE YEAR ENDING JANUARY 31, 1907.

The report of the Library Committee is herewith respectfully submitted.

In reviewing the year's work of the library there have been few events of importance to chronicle. There were no special innovations either in methods or in executive management of any department.

If possible, every one was a little better served and every day the benefits of the library were brought nearer to the people.

It will be noticed from the librarian's report that the circulation has fallen off, to a certain extent. If reasons were necessary for this, they are not far to seek. Nearly every librarian, at the present time, has the same story to tell. This is not a community of leisure, and continued good times do not tend to the reading of books. Pictorial journals and cheap magazines are taken up instead, by those who are too busy or too weary for serious application. Social clubs and societies whose main object is diversion, continue to hold out allurements for young men, and while the votaries of book clubs are diligent readers, their supply is not drawn from the public library.

What may be feared from a continuance of these conditions is, that a generation of "skimmers" may grow up, "snappers up of unconsidered trifles", who may, perhaps, be well informed, but cannot be well read.

It has been the custom at this time to make mention of some of the books of note which have been added to the library during the year. It may be the part of wisdom to keep up this custom, for it freshens the memory, and helps to recall some things that one would wish to have kept in mind.

In this connection, it seems proper to state that the accessions have been made with the usual care and discrimination. No department was neglected and no book was accepted without the sanction of the committee. It is impossible to read everything that goes into circulation, but a book that is found to contain anything which may offend, is rejected, no matter how attractive it may be otherwise. The rejections have been many, but it may be said that few books of consequence were left out unless the cost made the purchase prohibitive.

The year has been a prolific one in the number of volumes brought out, but few of these will stand out and bear the test of time, in the sense of being great.

Two specially important works were completed just in time to have them placed among the year's accessions. These were Rhodes "History of the United States" and Paul's "History of Modern England". At an earlier date, Trevelyan's "England Under the Stuarts", and Rose's "Development of the European Nations-1870 to 1900," gladdened the hearts of all students of history.

Biography reserved its choicest favors until 1906 was well on the wane. Then came four publications of unusual merit. The first to come to hand was Fitzgerald's "Sir Henry Irving". This was closely followed by Pennell's "Life of Charles Godfrey Leland", who as "Hans Breitman" was a delightful acquaintance to all who lived in the sixties. In Bisland's "Life and Letters of Lafcadio Hearn," there is revealed the inner nature of that shy, mysterious genius whose books on certain phases of Japanese life are regarded as authoritative. Sir Evelyn Wood's biographical sketch entitled, "From Midshipman to Field Marshal", is the life story of one who took an active part in every war waged by Great Britain for the past half century. It is told, as might be expected, in the simple, direct manner befitting a gallant soldier.

The additions to science and the arts have been unusually rich. Among these might be mentioned "Cyclopedia of Modern Shop Practice" and "Cyclopedia of Applied Electricity". Sears' "Physical Geography and Geology of Essex County" is a work of great merit and of special interest to the dwellers of this section. Wireless Telegraphy also received due attention.

The travellers as usual contributed their store of enjoyment. The "Philippine Experience of an American Teacher" gives us a picture of our possessions in the Orient from an entirely novel view point. A book that should prove of much local interest is "Some Recollections of Voyages in the China Trade," by Capt. Charles F. Lowe. It is as fascinating as a romance and is the true story of a man formerly identified with our town.

Sociology was not neglected and it may be assumed that fiction received the consideration to which it would seem to be entitled. As the readers of fiction outnumber all others, both here and elsewhere, the importance of supplying the popular demand for this class of reading in a rational and liberal manner must be evident.

Under the head of fiction there are one or two phases of a question that are the cause of perplexity to librarians and library committees. The first is, how to draw the line and be just, on books that are bright and well written, that are sure to be popular and yet, in many cases are full of risky situations and suggestive expressions. One does not want to be narrow, but at the same time there is that sense of responsibility, which one must acknowledge, but which does not clear the difficulty.

If you look to others for guidance and advice, you may be confronted with the fact that one librarian has accepted a book of whose character you were in doubt, while another in a town nearby rejects it with scant ceremony.

It is fair to assume that the moral sense of one community is as keen as that of the other and that on general principles the first librarian may be as particular and circumspect as his neighbor.

The second point is, when an author who has written books which have attained wide popularity shows signs of going backward, does it then become our duty to refuse his books admission to the library. There is more than one now in the field who has written himself out, but he has admirers by the thousand, and it may be that his very latest may be found among those which are known as the best sellers.

Our local readers show a curious lack of appreciation for the writings of foreign novelists, outside those of the British isles. Tolstoi and Turgenieff are scarcely known to the present generation, the Spanish, Italian, German and Danish writers have few admirers, and even the author of Quo Vadis is almost forgotten.

1906 passed out without leaving behind what may be called a great novel. True, there were many bright and well written books in the great mass that came from the press, but few that deserve special approbation, nor were there any considerable number that will be taken up for a second reading a decade hence. The best thing that can be said in their favor is, the majority were clean.

One of the things to be desired is a children's room, entirely apart from the main library. At present it is one of the dreams of the future.

The schools receive a great amount of attention and liberal provisions are made for the teachers.

It may be that the library is lacking in some of the costly modern accessories, but the admirable manner in which its affairs are administered, the care and forethought constantly exercised, the desire to advance every measure which will increase its efficiency, make up in a great measure for any shortcomings that may happen to exist.

The library is also fortunate in the services of John D. McKeen. He is more than a mere caretaker. He is known to every one of its patrons. His courtesy and willingness to serve have made him many friends.

It is more than fifty years since the library opened its doors to the public. From the very first it had a distinction of its own. The principles on which it was founded were far in advance of its time. From those principles there has been no deviation. It may be styled old fashioned, it has no sumptuous fittings, but none the less, we are proud of it.

THOMAS CARROLL, Chairman.

REPORT OF THE EBEN DALE SUTTON REFERENCE LIBRARY.

TO THE LYCEUM AND LIBRARY COMMITTEE OF THE PRABODY INSTITUTE:—

The report of the Eben Dale Sutton Reference Library Committee for the year ending January 31, 1907, is respectfully submitted.

The duty of selecting books for this library requires considerable thought so as not to fill up the space with books of doubtful worth, for the book-buyer of today is beset with many temptations in the line of attractive and beautifully made editions on every conceivable subject. The committee has added those which in their judgment were the most suitable.

Many of the departments are becoming well rounded out, for instance, the art books would be a small library in themselves; and collectors in any line will find something on the subject, whether it be pottery, porcelain, furniture, silver ware or old clocks and watches; the books on the natural sciences are constantly added to and genealogy has grown to quite a sizable collection in the last few years. Altogether it is a collection of rare and beautiful and useful books to delight the heart of the booklover, and it should fill every citizen of Peabody with pride to possess such a library.

Our town has never figured prominently as a book-publishing place but it does its part, and a large part too, in furnishing leather for book-bindings. No doubt many of our finest bound books are done in leather tanned in our factories but we are not sure; however, our set of The Century Dictionary in four volumes has just been rebound by the publishers in leather made in Peabody and for a plain, durable and handsome binding, is worthy of your inspection.

A few of the books added during the year are: The Encyclopædia Americana, 16 vols.; Life, Letters and Works of Frederic Leighton, by Mrs. Russell Barrington; Ancient Records of Egypt, by James H. Breasted; A History of Architecture by Russell Sturgis; The Jewish Cyclopædia, 12 vols.; Salons of 1906; Old Time Wall Papers, by Kate Sanborn; The Collector's Manual, by N. Hudson Moore. Also four autograph letters of George Peabody, three written while he was in Baltimore, in 1816, and one while at London in 1851.

For the benefit of the next committee we would suggest that more drawers for books be added on the west side of the room as the present drawers are all filled.

We thank the trustees for carrying out our suggestion of carpeting the stairs and also the librarian and janitor for their co-operation.

For the Committee,
FRED W. BUSHBY, Chairman.

REPORT OF THE LYCEUM COMMITTEE.

TO THE LYCEUM AND LIBRARY COMMITTEE:

The Lyceum Committee of 1906-07 respectfully submit their report of the fifty-third course of lectures held at the Peabody Institute.

Your committee attended to the duty assigned to them and were enabled to secure the services of lecturers of a high order, upon interesting and popular subjects, illustrated, at prices within the appropriation allotted to them.

The perfected arrangements of producing lighting effects for their lanterns and for hall service, recently introduced by the building committee, prove of material importance in presenting illustrated lectures.

The attendance at the lectures thus far given in the present course demonstrates the fact that this is the pleasing type of the current times.

Following is the lecture course for the season:—

Nov. 14, 1906. Dr. John C. Bowker. Ireland.

Dec. 19, 1906. Hon. Arthur K. Peck. The Heart of the Rockies and the Yosemite.

Jan. 16, 1907. Wm. Lyman Underwood. In the Woods with an Indian.

Feb. 6, 1907. Herbert W. Gleason. Among the Wild Flowers.

For the Committee,

GEORGE A. WHITNEY, Chairman.

READING ROOM COMMITTEE.

TO THE LYCEUM AND LIBRARY COMMITTEE :

The Reading Room Committee respectfully submits its report for the year ending January 31, 1907.

The following magazines and papers have been added during the year:

The American Boy.
The Circle.
Farming.
American Farmer.
Dairy Farmer.
Poultry Journal.
Garden Magazine.
Technical World.
System.

The New England Homestead has been discontinued, the ground being better covered by the farming magazines and papers just added.

Another valuable addition to the Reading Room this year, which the Librarian has sent for and received and placed on file there, are the Daily Consular Reports of the United States. These have been already consulted to some extent, and will undoubtedly be of more service when generally known to be accessible.

The attendance in the evening has shown quite an increase, partly owing to the adding of the evening edition of the Boston Daily Globe to the files last year.

We would suggest that in the future a special sum be reserved for the use of the Reading Room, as is done for the Lyceum Committee, this committee being at present merely a sub-committee of the Library Committee, having no special amount appropriated for its use, and not being limited as to expenditure. This can be acted upon by the incoming Lyceum and Library Committee if thought advisable.

FRANK TAYLOR, Chairman.

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.

The report of the Librarian for the year ending January 31st, 1907, is respectfully submitted.

Attention was called in last year's report to the fact that the time was not far distant when additional shelf room would have to be provided. Upon investigation it seems feasible to decrease by some six inches the width of the aisles between the cases in the southern part of the library room which would provide space for installing one additional long case, and answer the demand for increased shelf space for two and possibly three more years. This case will be needed the coming year.

One of our greatest expense items today is the cost of rebinding books, caused in no small degree by the notoriously poor work done in the original binding of the modern book. So great an evil has this become, that an Englishman, Cedric Chivers, has for some time devoted himself to the binding of books for libraries "once for all", his claim being that books bound by his process will never need rebinding, but will continue in circulation until worn out. He has recently opened a branch in Brooklyn, N. Y., and this year our replacements of Fiction and Juveniles have been mainly from his stock. He also procures from publishers, at the time of publication, some of the most popular novels in sheets, and is able to supply them a few days after publication. The first cost of books obtained from him exceeds that of books in the regular binding by about the cost of one additional binding, but in the end experience proves that books thus bound are a decided economy both in time and money, as well as a saving of annoyance to the public by avoiding the necessity of withdrawing a book from circulation from four to six weeks in order to rebind it just as the demand for it has fairly begun.

The first lot of these Chivers books has now been in use for nine months, and not one of them has given out in any respect. This is all the more gratifying as this lot contained many of the Lang Fairy books and Juveniles by Ellis, which are famous, or infamous, for their poor paper and binding in the ordinary publishers' editions.

The experiment has been tried this year of having the pupils of the eighth grade in the Grammar schools sent to the library in small squads for the purpose of having explained to them the working of the card catalog, Poole's Index and other reference books; afterward they have been required to look up the references to some subject connected with their school work for the actual practice. The plan has worked fairly well, and has been the means of bringing to the library a number of pupils who have not been in the habit of coming here, and has resulted also in the issuing of quite a few new cards.

At the request of the Superintendent of Schools and Miss Loud, the drawing teacher, there has been installed a screen upon which she is maintaining an exhibit of the work of the children in drawing, work with paper, etc. the plan being to give the public, especially the parents of the pupils, an idea of what the children are doing.

The exhibitions have been a decided success and have been visited and inspected by a goodly number of grown people, while the children also have found them very attractive.

Our membership in the Library Art Club has been continued and the following exhibitions have been given:

Paris,	Feb. 13-March 5.
Illustrations of the poem
"Evangeline,"	March 14-April 3.

Elson Prints,	April 11-30.
Plymouth, Mass.,	May 1-21.
Florence, Italy,	May 28-June 16.
Works of John S. Sargent,	Sept. 4-24.
Greece,	Oct. 9-29.
Rouen, France,	Nov. 6-26.
Famous pictures,	Nov. 27-Dec. 17.
Switzerland, the Bernese Oberland,	Jan. 1-21.
Yellowstone National Park,	Jan. 24-Feb. 11.

The list of periodicals on file in the Reading Room has been increased this year by the addition by gift or purchase of the following :

American Boy, American Farmer, Business Men's Magazine, Circle, Farming, Garden Magazine, Kimball's Dairy Farmer, Reliable Poultry Journal, System, Technical World, and Tri-State Tourist, while the New England Homestead has been dropped and Men and Women has suspended publication. The total number of periodicals now received is 85, of which 69 are currently bound.

From the estate of the late William B. Trask of Dorchester the Library has received the gift of some 23 volumes formerly belonging to Mr. Isaac Bullock, a native and old-time resident of this town.

Some years ago Mr. Trask sent here 62 volumes from the library of his uncle, Mr. Bullock, and at his death his administrator sent these to be added to the others. There are several volumes of note-books, and all the books contain copious annotations and illustrations by the hand of Mr. Bullock. Of especial interest is a manuscript book of some 400 pages, beautifully written in inks of various colors by Mr. Bullock, and illustrated with drawings in colors, many of them of scenes from the author's life of forty years as a sailor, showing the ships in which he sailed and the places that he visited. The contents in part consist of sketches from his adventures as a sailor, and a short description of his adventures as a gold miner in California, he having been an original "49er."

There is also an interesting article on the "Peabody Library in Danvers, Mass.," and an original poem on the death of George Peabody, whom Mr. Bullock knew and for whom he expresses a profound admiration.

The volume is a monument to the industry of its author, and is well worthy of inspection.

The work of the assistants has been performed as satisfactorily as is possible under the present system and acknowledgements are due to our janitor, Mr. McKeen, for his cheerful co-operation in every way in his power, in the running of the library.

Statistics in the usual form are appended, with a list of donors of bound volumes and of periodicals on file in the reading room.

LYMAN P. OSBORN, Librarian.
